DATE : 15 October 2021

The implementation of various distance learning delivery modalities (DLDMs) covered in the Basic Education Learning Continuity Plan (BE-LCP) has made learning continuity feasible for school year 2020-2021 amidst the threat and uncertainties brought about by COVID-19 pandemic. In this regard, the Department of Education's Bureau of Learning Delivery - Teaching and Learning Division (BLD-TLD) is conducting a research to better understand how these learning delivery modalities were operationalized in field offices, with the goal of using this information to inform policy review and formulation for teaching and learning.

The actual survey data collection will be done in your region and in some divisions having been randomly selected among all the divisions in the country. To ensure the smooth flow of the survey data collection, this Office would like to invite your regional and division research supervisors/coordinators to attend the planning meeting with the BLD-TLD researchers on October 25, 2021, Monday, at 9:00 AM via Zoom.

The planning meeting aims to discuss the research purpose, target participants, and guidelines for sampling procedure to ensure a legitimate data collection process.
